Tory Wants to Scuttle Bennett and 'His Minions'

Dr. James Marshall of Sunnyside, B.C., formerly with the Dominion Experimental Farm at Summerland, was opposed in his bid for the nomination as Progressive Conservative standard bearer in the South Okanagan, for the Sept. 30 provincial election.

About 150 people turned out to the P.C. nominating meeting in Kelowna Friday night as the 60-year-old ophthalmologist was unanimously elected to carry the

NEED COLLEGE

"I think we better get cracking on a Junior college," he said. "I am also keen to see greater attention to vocational training. It is hard to get technicians and skilled workers today."

"I would also welcome light industry to the Okanagan Valley providing they wouldn't pollute the atmosphere."

He said he wouldn't want to see the same consequences here as the Niagara Peninsula. "The industry there has ruined one of Canada's loveliest spots."

"I don't feel intimidated by the odds against me in battling Premier Bennett and his minions," he said.

VOTED SOCRÉD

He confessed to having voted for Mr. Bennett when he first took power. "I was fed up with the old parties at that time and the Socreds then were all amateurs, save for Mr. Bennett. But now they are the old pros and far worse than their predecessors."

"The Social Credit party is no longer what it used to be. We need a leader who can deal with Ottawa and Davie Fulton can do just that. Mr. Pearson is having enough trouble with Quebec right now, without having difficulties with B.C."

"I heard Robert Bonner, B.C. attorney - general speak in French to the recent French educators conference in Vancouver. He said that B.C. and Quebec have one thing in common, we both hate the federal government. But that's not what we want," Mr. Marshall said.

Pensions Hike Seen

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government is expected soon to announce it will ask Parliament early next month to approve a $10-a-month increase to $75 in the old age pension, a reliable source said today.

Reports of an Oct. 1 pension boost were neither confirmed nor denied by Health Minister Judy LaMarsh last night. However, she said legislation would be necessary to take such a step and Parliament is not scheduled to meet until Sept. 30.

An informant indicated that a more likely course for the government would be to inform the opposition - provincial conference on pensions next week of its intention to give an increase Oct. 1. The pension is paid to all at age 70.

BC Runoff Above Normal

OTTAWA (CP) — Run-off of Canadian rivers was above average in most of the country in August, representing a sharp improvement over July, the northern affairs department's water resources branch said Friday.

The run-off on the Prairies was nearly normal, while it was well above average on the eastern slopes of the Rockies. Run-off in British Columbia was above average in all regions except Vancouver Island where it was below normal for the third successive month.

Typical rivers in Western Canada with percentages of normal run-off: Manitoba and Saskatchewan: Assiniboine 97; Alberta: Bow 117; North Saskatchewan 109; Lee Creek 132; British Columbia: Kootenay 109; Columbia 107; Fraser 110; Skeena 100; Sprout 74.

BIG PULP MILL NEAR KAMLOOPS GIVEN GO-AHEAD FROM VICTORIA

VANCOUVER (CP) — The provincial government has given its approval to construction of a pulp mill near Kamloops which will cost between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000, it was announced Friday.

D. R. Andrews, lawyer for Kamloops Pulp and Paper Co., said Friday the firm hopes to begin construction before winter.

He said company president Ken Long, now is completing arrangements.

"We have satisfied Kamloops council and the provincial fisheries board that we can control river pollution," Mr. Andrews said.

Plea For U.S.-China Trade Rejected By Washington

WASHINGTON (CP) — The U.S. State Department today rejected the proposal by the president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce that the U.S. should encourage trade with Red China.

A spokesman said the U.S. government remains opposed to any form of trade with Red China and the department is not happy about other nations entering into such transactions.

Canada recently completed a new wheat agreement with the mainland China. Dismissing the idea that Red China lessens the ability of that country to fight India and to support the Communist Viet Cong who have been attacking the south Viet Nam, the spokesman maintained.

AGITATION IN WEST There has been some agitation by U.S. west coast businessmen to allow American trade with Red China. The U.S. State Department has said the door is open to requests for export licenses to Red China.

The issue was rejected by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce president, who had a law degree.

U. L. Steele, manager of the chamber's news division, said he was free to express his own opinion but the chamber does not have a policy on the Red China trade issue. He judged that the chamber executive has mixed views on this subject.

Overwhelming Senate Vote Seen For Test-Ban Treaty

WASHINGTON (CP) — U.S. Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield says he still expects overwhelming Senate approval of the limited nuclear test-ban treaty despite the announced opposition of Senator Richard B. Russell and some members of his Senate armed services committee.

Russell, Georgia Democrat, who heads the armed services group, said late Friday that "after long and careful study, I find that I cannot conscientiously support this treaty."

But the opposition came as no surprise to Mansfield, who later told a reporter he was confident the pact would be ratified by a big bipartisan margin.

Approval by two-thirds of those voting is required for ratification. So if all 100 senators vote, at least 67 votes will be needed for approval.

The showdown comes after an expected two weeks of debate. Usually reliable sources said checks indicate the opposition will be unable to rally more than 20 votes.

Russell, chairman of the armed services group, said he will outline his reason for opposition during debate starting Monday on the treaty banning nuclear testing except underground.

His announcement followed similar ones from Chairman John Stennis (Dem., Miss.) of the armed forces preparedness investigating subcommittee, and Senator Strom Thurmond (Dem., S.C.), a member of the subcommittee and the parent group.

Both Split Socred Groups Prepare Story For Voters

QUEBEC (CP) — Most of Quebec's Social Credit MPs were back in their home ridings today, assessing reaction to a feverish week of activity which saw the Quebec delegation split into two camps.

So far two members — one from each group — have sketched plans to explain their stands to voters.

Gerard Croteau, member for Rimouski, said he plans a rally to explain why he chose to follow Robert Thompson instead of René Coutu.

Two of his principal organizers left him as a result of the split, Mr. Coutu said, adding, "it was their right to take this action."

Mr. Coutu said he picked Mr. Thompson because he is an ideal leader while Mr. Coutu represented a kind of "tormented politician."

At Mississauga, north of Lake St. John, a Coutu follower said the split is not so much over Social Credit doctrine but a conflict between English and French.

C. A. Gauthier, member for Roberval, said he chose Mr. Coutu because Mr. Thompson is a "puppet" of Alberta Premier E. C. Manning "who detests French-Canadians."

"I took the side of the people and I don't believe my electors would accept me any longer had I acted any other way because, before being a Creditiste, I am a French-Canadian and it is with them I will fight."

Mr. Gauthier said he plans to tour his riding explaining his position to organizers and voters. Meanwhile, Marcel Lessard, member for Lake St. John and a Thompson supporter, told a reporter he might lose up to one-quarter of his voting support because he follows Mr. Thompson. But he suggested that many other voters who wouldn't support Social Credit because Mr. Coutu was in it now would rally round.

Justice Minister Lionel Chevrier said in Ottawa, Alta. he intends to call a constitutional conference early next year that could clear the path for a new federal law on the subject of Confederation. He said the Canadian Bar Association annual meeting the federal-provincial conference would be scheduled to draft a formula for amending the British North America Act. "If we can agree on a formula, we might also take a broader look at our constitution itself and find that it needs to be revised in several of its aspects in order to reflect the new concept of co-operative federalism."

Columbia Debates Intensifies

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canada and the United States today opened intensified technical studies to find ways of bridging cross-border financial differences blocking a move towards Canadian ratification of the long-stalled Columbia River power treaty.

External Affairs Minister Paul Martin announced that technical working groups have been established to tackle problems connected with the financing of the multi-million-dollar project and marketing of Canada's share of power benefits to the U.S.

These groups, with organizational meetings today, will operate here and in Ottawa, in British Columbia and in the U.S. Pacific Northwest during the next few weeks to prepare findings for another policy meeting to take place possibly Oct. 4, just a few days after the Sept. 30 British Columbia election.

Strikers Picket Nuclear Plant

ROLPHINTON, Ont. (CP) — Picketing resumed early today at Canada's first nuclear-powered generating station here, despite warnings from the employees' union that a strike violates the Labor Relations Act.

Telegrams were sent the 82 striking employees by the union, asking them to return to work immediately.

Seventy-five workers walked out Friday to protest an Ontario Hydro Commission plan to transfer employees to another station near Kincardine, Ont. Seven women office clerks later joined the workers.

Shortly after the strike, the plant was shut down.

CHICAGO (AP) — An explosion ripped a hole in the hull of a Canadian vessel April 22, waiting for a cargo of grain to be loaded at a dispute between two unions.

The blast left a hole estimated to measure about four feet around the water line of the Howard L. Shaw, owned by Upper Lakes Shipping Limited of Toronto. While the vessel was in the water, there was no damage to the inner wall.

There were no injuries and Capt. Harold D. Jones, the shipper, said there was no danger of the vessel sinking.

Detective Frank Kasky said there were indications dynamite may have been used. But the police department's bomb unit withdrew an ongoing pending investigation of an investigation. The explosion tore at the side of the 450-foot freighter that was off the dock in the Calumet Grain Company.

WOUNDS IN A NEARBY grain elevator were broken. Capt. Jones said the blast blew the grain to the deck. "I saw smoke but no flames," he reported. "There was some debris on deck."

When Smith of Toronto, the third there on watch duty at the time, was on the starboard side when the blast occurred, he had observed the port side a half hour before he said, "I saw nothing wrong."

Two unions are engaged in a bitter international dispute that has left the Howard L. Shaw empty since it arrived in Chicago to take on a cargo of the 450-foot freighter that was off the dock in the Calumet Grain Company.

Recall Parliament At Aggression Labor Leader Jodoin Tells Pearson

OTTAWA (CP) — President Claude Jodoin of the Canadian Labor Congress charged today that the explosion that holed a Canadian vessel in Chicago borders on aggression and called on Prime Minister Pearson to consider reconvening Parliament now.

"The report of the dynamiting of the vessel Howard L. Shaw in Chicago indicates that the shocking series of violent incidents which precipitated the action on the part of the United States government without further delay."

Mr. Jodoin said the situation is "completely intolerable" and the government "must demand action on the part of the United States government without further delay."

Mr. Jodoin said in a telegram to Mr. Pearson: "This incident borders on an act of aggression and the government must act immediately to clear this whole problem up."

"According to your government statement in the House of Commons, consideration of reconvening Parliament should now be given."

Wallace Asked To Explain Why He Shouldn't Be Curbed

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A federal judge has directed Governor George Wallace of Alabama to explain why he should not be restrained from barring pupils from Alabama schools facing desegregation.

And violence flared again in Birmingham Friday night, but police said the incident in which two 16-year-old Negro boys were killed had no connection with racial troubles that have kept the city tense for months.

Police said Negro teenagers fired shotgun blasts into a grocery store in what appeared to be a gang incident.

U.S. district Judge Seymour H. Lynne ordered Wallace to show cause Sept. 12 why he should not be enjoined from interfering with school desegregation.

Three Birmingham schools were closed on instructions of the governor Thursday. State troopers, acting on Wallace's orders, blocked Negro and white pupils from four schools in Huntsville, Ala., Friday.

In still another legal development, a three-judge federal court in Tuscaloosa rejected a request by six white parents backed by Wallace to delay integration of the Birmingham schools.

REVERSE INTEGRATION A second case of reverse integration developed in Arkansas. Mr. and Mrs. Carl William Darnell, a white couple, enrolled their two children in a previously Negro school at Little Rock.

A white mother sent her six-year-old son to attend classes in a Negro elementary school near North Little Rock Wednesday.

Malaya Sends In Troops To Troubled North Borneo

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (Reuters) — Three hundred Malayan troops headed for the awak, usually reliable sources said.

Kuching, the capital of the British protectorate which will join with Singapore, Malaya and North Borneo in the new federation of Malaysia later this month — has been raided by armed rebels and hit by anti-Malaysia riots during the last few months.

A Malayan army statement said the troops would represent Malaya at a parade in Kuching Sept. 16, the day Malaysia is scheduled to come into being.

Meanwhile, Prime Minister Abdul Rahman said he was happy the United Nations had completed its survey of public opinion in Sarawak and North Borneo to the satisfaction of all parties involved.

The UN sent two four-man teams to the area after Indonesia and the Philippines asked for verification of elections in the two British protectorates last year which indicated the population wanted to join in the Malaysia federation.

HAD CO-OPERATION In London, Laurence Michemore, the leader of one of the teams said Friday that his group had the fullest co-operation during its three-week survey.

"We are confident that we have fulfilled our terms of reference," Michemore said.

Storm Of Indignation Rages About Head Of UK Minister

LONDON (Reuters) — A storm of righteous moral indignation is raging around the head of Britain's education minister, Sir Edward Boyle, for failing to repudiate the "modern" views on chastity expressed by his principal medical officer, Dr. Peter Henderson.

A parliamentary row is brewing and several members have announced that they intend to force Boyle to state clearly whether he approves of intercourse before marriage as soon as the House of Commons reassembles after its summer vacation.

Dr. Henderson recently told a group of 50 young teachers and lecturers that engaged couples who had intercourse were not necessarily unchaste.

The blast of criticism that resulted from his lecture was doubled when Boyle refused to intervene in the controversy, saying he felt it would be wrong for him to try to impose his personal views on schools.

Boyle, 40, describes himself half seriously as "a Puritan" but is determined to avoid imposing any regulations on morals, politics or religion for Britain's 200,000 teachers.

Without giving a hint of his personal opinion, he has insisted that it is not his duty as a minister to establish rules on the subject of sex.

The most distinguished of his critics to put his views into print is Lord Fisher of Lismore, former Archbishop of Canterbury.

He argued that the minister's attitude was rather negative, because he had already advised students were repatriated to Peking from Moscow Sept. 2, from smoking.

Canadian Exchanges Gain By Following Wall Street

Canadian Press Staff Writer
Canadian stock markets after months of following their own course followed New York this week and the result has been a marked improvement.

The Toronto Industrial Index rose to an all-time high of 630.14 June 5 of this year, but the dual shocks of the June budget and the U.S. equalization tax proposals sent the index plummeting downwards. However, a gain of 15.29 over the week has lifted it back to its July 16 level. The day before the proposed equalization tax was announced, the New York market had been on the upswing for some time and set a record high Thursday. Brokers are watching developments with cautious optimism.

The post-Labor Day period is traditionally marked by increased activity, but the continuing congressional committee hearings into the equalization tax proposals threatened to smother Canadian markets.

Without the bullish tendencies of the New York market Canadian markets would be seriously affected, said Paul Henry of the Toronto brokerage firm of H. A. Daly and Co. Ltd.

INDUSTRIALS UP
On the Toronto market major industrials finished the week with appreciable gains and bank issues continued a steady upward trend.

Tuesday, London gold prices jumped to prominence following an announcement by Premier Joseph Smallwood that two important zinc deposits have been reported on New Brunswick's Great Northern Peninsula. Mr. Smallwood said the ore was discovered by Leitch, which has crossed activity, but the continuing

The company rose to a high of $2.44 early in the week, and then slipped back to close at $2.14.

One take-over battle finally worked itself out. Last week's Midland-Oiler Securities Ltd. on behalf of a group of private investors, announced it had obtained control of Ontario Loan and Debenture Co. of London. Mr. Midland said it had acquired in excess of 51 per cent of Ontario Loan's 250,000 outstanding shares at $33.75 a share plus the 25-cent quarterly dividend announced for Oct. 1.

FOREIGN MARKET SLOW

The Toronto Foreign market, which started operations Aug. 22 to facilitate trading of already issued Canadian securities between American buyers and sellers had a disappointing week.

Although 117 active stocks are listed on it, volume was only 12,000 shares worth $348,123 compared with 87,181 shares worth approximately $600,000 last week. At Toronto was 19,464,000 shares compared with 12,632,792 last week.

Everyone Wants To Hear Those Soothing Sermons

THE UNPOPULAR PREACHER

2 Timothy 4:1-4

In this portion of the Bible, Paul exhorts Timothy to be faithful in his teaching ministry, because of the coming time when people will not endure sound doctrine. We are living in such a time right now. The preacher who expounds the impending judgment of hell fire becomes very unpopular in the eyes of many of his people. Why? Because they want to hear something that is soothing to the human ear and that can be comprehended with their finite mind. Nevertheless, it is not what we believe, or think, or what we want to hear and not hear will count on that day, but what the Word of God says. Hebrews 9:27, "It is appointed unto man once to die, but after that the judgment."

It must be comforting to such people when someone calls from door to door and tells them there is no such thing as hell fire or eternal punishment. Mankind will finally be annihilated and that is the end. Why preach judgment? Would that it were so for the sake of those who do not believe the Bible. However, read the following passages, Matthew 25:41-46; 2 Thess. 1:7-9; Revelation 20:10-15; 21:8, and many others. These give us enough light on the subject. In the light of these verses it is dangerous to make such bold statements, especially by those who claim to be his servants.

Let us examine a few of those unpopular preachers of the past recorded in Scripture.

ENOCH—A man who walked with God. A man who had a testimony that was accepted in heaven, but was taken away before the judgment came. What was his message? Turn to Jude 14, 15 there you find it. "The coming of the Lord to execute judgment upon the ungodly for their ungodly deeds." That message was not accepted.

NOAH—Another unpopular preacher, who was just and perfect in his generation. He also walked with God and preached judgment for 120 years. Was it accepted? No, that is borne out by the fact that only he and his family entered the ark of safety. Did Noah fail in his preaching? No mankind failed to accept the grace offered to them, they rejected it. No doubt in my mind that Noah did not fail to tell them of the long suffering of God as Peter tells us in his Epistle, 2 Peter 3:9. "The Lord is not slack concerning his promise, as some men count slackness, but is long suffering to us-ward, not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance."

MOSES—An unpopular post-diluvian preacher. A man refusing to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter, choosing rather to suffer affliction with the people of God than enjoy the pleasure of sin for a season. He too had a very unpopular message as far as Pharaoh and his cohorts were concerned. But here we have a man who did not compromise and again and again, "Let my people go that they may worship the Lord," and he was not satisfied till every hoof came out of Egypt. God cannot bless compromisers; he can only bless the true and faithful word of the preacher. When the Bible says "Thus said the Lord" let us accept it, and believe it.

God has given us some men in our day who are not scared to preach the full counsel of God and many many are coming to a saving knowledge of Christ.

At the same time however thousands are turning a deaf ear to the wonderful grace of God.

See You Next Summer!

When you close the cottage for the winter, there are a few precautions that can be taken to make things safer and healthier for the next year.

Matches should be put into glass or metal containers and closed tightly so that mice cannot chew them and cause a fire. As a handy hint, keep the container near the entrance in case you arrive after dark some time and find that no one has remembered matches or lighter. Candles, too, should be left in a jar or tin so that animals can't make a meal of them.

Remove all foods that are packaged in cartons that could be chewed. Canned foods that contain liquids may freeze and burst, so don't leave them in the cottage—if you do leave them, don't eat them next year, since there may be a tiny hole in the tin and the food may be contaminated.

So that mice and squirrels will not be attracted into the cottage, make sure that no crumbs or food scraps are left. Clean out food cupboards and shelves and wash with one of the javel cleansers, then spread newspapers and spray these with insect repellent. Many of the insects and vermin are carriers of disease germs—the use of repellents will help to discourage winter visitors from taking up residence and defiling or contaminating the kitchen area.

Mice and squirrels will get into cottages and destroy pillows, mattresses, linen and clothing in their efforts to make warm winter nests. Mice will shred paper such as tissues into incredibly fine scraps and then pack this into any container which will provide room for the occupant in his hibernation. If this refuge happens to be a drawer where clothing or household or table linen are left, there will be a disagreeable odour which is hard to get rid of. Therefore, put a small jar filled with cotton batting soaked in javel water into the drawer—it will keep out vermin.

Flies, wasps and other insects may be carriers of disease germs and on a war musing day, the flies may come to life in the cottage and start to multiply rapidly, usually in a sunny window. When closing up, spray the windows and panes thoroughly in each room and scatter mothballs over the floor, or shelves, beds and on ledges where the walls don't reach up to the ceiling. Spray the whole room, walls, closets and furniture and then close the doors tightly. Scrape a thick line with a mothball along the bottom of the door on the floor to deter anything from crawling underneath.

Next spring, there may be a faint odour of the mothballs but open windows and doors and a good breeze will soon get rid of this. Hang the linen and clothing out in the sun for a few hours and they will be fresh again.

Repair all screen doors and windows before leaving, so that a small worn spot in the netting won't be discovered and made into a large tear. If possible, put a lid on top of the chimney, not only to keep out animals and insects but also to prevent leaves from clogging the chimney and causing a fire hazard next summer.

Don't leave old medicines at the cottage through the winter months. Time and temperature changes may cause deterioration of some medicines or cause some drugs to become either dangerously potent or quite useless.

If you depend upon wood stoves and coal oil lamps at the cottage, leave enough wood to kindle the fire as soon as you arrive. Leave it in a dry place in the cottage. If you've driven a long way it helps to find things handy to help with your gracious living when you start roughing it in the bush.

Trujillo's Ghost Still Walks Through Streets Of Dominica

By ROBERT HANCOCK

SANTO DOMINGO (AP)—

The ghost of generalissimo Rafael Leonidas Trujillo still hangs over the Dominican Republic.

The memory of the dictator, dead two years, was a major factor in the 1962 presidential election. His shadow today threatens the stability of this infant democracy.

Juan Bosch, a white-thatched author, professor was swept into office only eight months ago by a crushing national vote of approval. Now his growing unpopularity is one of many disturbing signs here.

The trouble, says a foreign businessman, "is that everyone wants to govern, but after 31 years of tyranny nobody really knows how."

A once-bright economic picture is dimming and the probabilities of violence are increasing. There is a growing feeling that President Bosch's government may not survive long.

THEORY CONFIRMED

Prominent Dominicans regard the tenor and scope of the opposition as confirming a theory that Bosch didn't win the 1962 presidential election, the National Civic Union lost it.

This view holds that the once-powerful Civic Union lost out when it insisted on a pre-election policy of punishing all former collaborators and associates of dictator Trujillo. It is said a great segment of the population—including the military establishment—felt itself threatened by such a policy and therefore came to regard Bosch as the lesser of two evils.

The irony of the situation now is that Bosch, whose Revolutionary Party adopted a soft approach to the Trujillo issue, has asked for a stiff confiscation measures against all who might have benefited—even indirectly under the fallen tyrant.

KICK UP STORMS

Announcement of a new confiscation law drove anti-government feeling to its most dangerous peak. The upsurge was but one of the many storms kicked up by the Bosch regime.

By word and deed the president seems to have contributed to unrest that has driven investment capital away and frightened U.S. companies whose holdings are valued at $100,000,000.

He has accused the U.S.-owned South Puerto Rico Sugar Company of conspiring against him. In a later speech he warned Dominicans never to do business with foreign oil companies.

He singled out a Roman Catholic chaplain as the mastermind of an armed forces plot to charge the church has asked that Bosch prove or retract.

U.S. Bald Eagle Said Dying Out

VICTORIA (CP)—David Hancock, an air-borne Victoria zoologist, believes the bald eagle is facing extinction in the United States—is in danger of becoming extinct in that country.

Some of the causes for the decline of the bird are the use of DDT and other pesticides, the encroachment of civilization on the eagle's natural habitat and trigger-happy hunters.

Put while the bald eagle is losing a precarious existence in the U.S., it has found a relative paradise in northern Vancouver Island and the nearby Gulf Islands, says Mr. Hancock.

He and his assistant, George McKay, are conducting a study of the status of the bald eagle as a preliminary to an investigation of the bird's apparent decline. His work is being carried on under an Audubon Society grant, and under supervision of the zoology department at the University of British Columbia, where he is a graduate student.

FLIES OWN PLANE

He has a definite advantage over other bird watchers in that he pilots his own plane, and can observe them from above. The two zoologists also use more conventional methods of observation from the ground.

Mr. Hancock says there are as many bald eagles on Vancouver Island as in the whole of the United States. (A recent estimate placed the number in the U.S., excluding Alaska, at about 4,000.)

But he is aware they are in danger of declining as their inland cousins are believed to be doing.

"It takes only a few hunters to shoot off a large percentage of the eagle population," he said.

He said he knew of an Indian boy of 10 years old who had alone accounted for five.

It is not believed that the eagle breeds every year, and when it does it normally lays only one or two eggs.

PRESERVES MAY HELP

Mr. Hancock and his report will be studied by the Audubon Society along with reports from other regions. He will not necessarily make recommendations, but he said that an obvious solution would be to preserve tracts for bird and animal life.

"Tracts should be set aside with the idea of preserving the whole composite of nature, not only the eagle," said Mr. Hancock.

The bald eagle is primarily a fish-eating bird and must have tall trees near the coast in which to nest. If the trees are chopped down then it follows that the eagle will have no place to live and breed."

He said the eagles could be decreasing due to more subtle means. They might be dying off through malnutrition, or might be unable to cope with changes in their habitat.

It has been proved that eagles in captivity could live "at least the life-span of human beings," said Mr. Hancock.

He not only investigates his birds at a distance, he has six of them as guests on his property.

LOOKING BACK with Old Stager

Scotsman First To View Valley

By ARY GRAY

One hundred and one years ago a Scotsman, David Stuart, by name, became the first white man to gaze upon the Okanagan lake, and travel through the valley, according to above history.

Many times I have heard this, and have read references in various articles in the Okanagan Historical Society's annual reports dealing briefly with his journey.

I became curious about him, what kind of a man was he? Where did he fit into the historical scene of his day? What became of him afterwards? I set about looking for information, and found plenty. To me, his life was a fascinating story of adventure by sea and land, that bears telling to those residents of this fair valley who are interested in such things.

David Stuart was born in Balquhain, Perthshire, Scotland, Dec. 22, 1760, so he was not a young man when he first arrived in "Vancouver." He was 51.

He was not the only Stuart to play a part in the development of this "Oregon" country, as all the land from North Western "New Columbia" to the north, to the Spanish's California in the south, was known as at that time.

Two other Stuarts appear on the scene, both relatives of David. A cousin, John Stuart, was Simon Fraser's companion in his descent of the river to which the latter's name was given. We will hear of him again.

A nephew, Robert Stuart, was also in the fur trading business with his uncle David, and we will hear more of him also.

FOUGHT ROB ROY

David's great grandfather, we are told, was the famous Alexander Stuart, who successfully crossed swords with the fierce Rob Roy, and his father bore the middle name of James McTavish McAlister Stuart, and had served in the Black Watch, rising from private to captain.

David, a younger son, decided to seek his fortune by emigrating to America, and was engaged for a time in the fur trading business in Nova Scotia.

In 1807, he persuaded his nephew Robert to join him in the employ of the North West Company, rivals of the Hudson's Bay Company. In 1810 John Jacob Astor founded the Pacific Fur Company, to trade on the Columbia, in the Oregon country.

JOINED TRIP

The two Stuarts were persuaded to join the expedition, David being given some shares in the company as an inducement. On Sept. 6, 1810, they set sail from New York in company with many others, via Cape Horn, and the Sandwich Islands (now Hawaii) on a journey beset by fantastic perils and adventures.

The ship was the ill-fated Tonquin, that was later involved in the Nootka disaster.

Commanding the ship was Capt. Thorne, a cruel, callous and despotic man. Between the fur traders and Thorne a bitter feud developed, erupting into repeated threats of violence, in which David Stuart usually played the part of peacemaker.

JOKE FIZZLED

At the Falkland Islands, where they stopped for water, in a fit of anger at a harmless practical joke, Thorne sailed away leaving Stuart and eight others to their fate on the inhospitable shore. Nephew Robert Stuart forced the captain to turn back for them, by threatening to shoot him. The voyage around the Horn was beset with tempestuous weather, the sails were torn to rags, huge waves washed over the decks and swept cargo overboard, and eventually the ship reached the bar at the mouth of the Columbia.

The evil character of the captain was again evidenced, when he ordered Stuart to their deaths in such a way as a vain attempt to find a channel the boat being lost in the wild seas, eight men being drowned. The ship eventually escaped across the bar into the Columbia, and on April 11 the fur traders, some 30 men, under Duncan McDougall (a partner in the Pacific Fur Co.) rounded "Astoria," the first American settlement on the Pacific coast.

The next step was to be the establishment of trading posts in the interior, and on July 21 David Stuart and eight men, one of them was Alexander Ross, who wrote a graphic record of his journey. They headed up the Columbia in two clumsy Canadian canoes, equipped with sails, and loaded with trade goods. For mutual protection they travelled with some distinguished company, David Thompson, of the North West Co., with nine men, was returning inland from his expedition down the Columbia.

MANY HAZARDS

The journey was full of hazards, there were long portages, and at times, crowds of Indians, fully armed and threatening, gathered around. David Stuart was described by Ross as "one of those intrepid souls who are born without fear." An incident that illustrates Stuart's fearlessness occurred while ascending the river. Warned that a body of hostile Indians was gathered at The Dalles to intercept them, the party descended below the Dalles, and extinguished their fires, expecting an encounter in the morning. David Stuart had the last of the night, and at daybreak his nephew Robert discovered his uncle was not in camp. They tracked him to the Indian camp, where they found all the warriors asleep in a circle, and David Stuart sitting quietly in their midst, smoking an Indian pipe. When the Indians awoke he was surprised for coming without leave, and so astonished were the Indians by his coolness that they shook him by the hand, made him a present of the pipe, and soon they were warm friends.

His nephew was ready to rebuke him for his rashness, but he replied "there is no fear of an Indian if you have no fear of him." As they ascended the river the Indians became more friendly, helped with the portaging (they pay 10 metal buttons for each piece carried).

BRILLIANT COMET

When they reached the mouth of the "Columbia" River a brilliant comet in the evening sky was regarded by the Indians as a good omen, and they urged the white men to settle amongst them. A dwelling of driftwood was erected (the beginning of Fort Okanagan) and the first inland trading post of the Astorians was established on Sept. 1, 1811.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Don't Be Scared Of Collapsing Lung

By JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: The lung of my 17-year-old brother collapsed and the doctor performed surgery on him. A tube was put in his lung with a bottle of fluid to pump air in it.

Five days later the lung collapsed again and the doctor did the same thing. Why would this happen to someone so young? The doctor won't take out the lung.—MRS. P.

This collapse of the lung is called "spontaneous pneumothorax," which means a sudden leakage of air from the lung into the space between it and the chest wall. The pressure of the air that has leaked into the chest cavity then prevents the lung from expanding.

The cause usually is in the rupture of a bleb, or somewhat over-sized air sac in the lung. This can rupture rather easily, usually from sudden exertion or a hard cough, but sometimes without any noticeable reason except that the thin membrane suddenly breaks.

This is not uncommon in the teens and 20's and, of course, can happen later in life, too.

It seems like a scary sort of thing, but actually it is not usually a cause for great concern because when the lung collapses, the small leak heals, just as a cut finger would. Moreover, the hole in the lung is usually very small and hence heals rapidly.

There is no point in removing the lung. The surgery which you mention is relatively simple. The tube with the bottle is inserted into the chest cavity not to put air in, but to allow the air in the cavity (or pleural space) to escape as the lung begins to function again.

If another weak spot exists, it can rupture again. However, remember that in treatment of tuberculosis lungs often are collapsed deliberately to give them time to rest and fight off the disease. There is no reason to fear your brother's collapse had done any permanent damage.

The collapse of a lung may be painful, or otherwise, with the only discomfort being a temporary shortness of breath because only one lung is at work instead of two.

In a great many cases, the patient never has any further trouble. Again, some times it may occur again, just as it did in your brother's case.

Dear Dr. Molner: What would cause my jaw to crack, especially when I eat? Is some vitamin lacking?—W.M.T.

No, this condition does not result from lack of vitamins. It may be due to some arthritic process, or to certain tendons riding over the bone as you move your jaw.

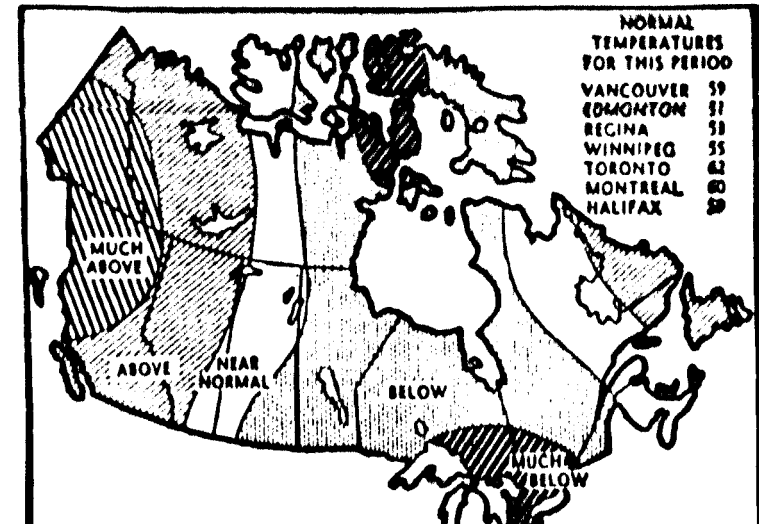

Another possibility sometimes involved is your "bite"—the way your teeth come together. If this is the case, have your dentist check, because the "bite" often can be corrected.

If no disease or dental fault is found, little can be done because it represents an anatomical variation in the joint, and you will have to get along with the cracking but need expect no harm from it.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it risky for a woman of 68 to have an operation for kidney stones?—MISS E.K.

Assuming that she is in reasonably good health otherwise, and thus in a good "surgical risk," there is no reason why not. The stones may be a cause of infection, bleeding and urinary discomfort, hence good indication.

NOTE TO MRS. K.H.: Whether you have a "climax" has nothing to do with pregnancy.

GO WEST FOR HEAT

Chilly weather will cover Manitoba, Ontario and most of Quebec in September according to the 30-day outlook of the United States weather bureau. Based on long-range predictions and subject to error, the forecast calls for above and much above normal temperatures for British Columbia and Alberta. Precipitation will be heavy in Southern Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes and light to moderate for the rest of the country. Tables give precipitation in inches of rain. (CP Newsmag)

CANDID COMMENT

By Bob Bauer

Some people will fight for something because, as an individual, they feel they are right, but others will fight because they are persuaded that it is the right thing to do.

I am referring to the recent Monashee Park controversy between myself, as an individual, and Patricia Macle, as president of the North Okanagan Naturalist Club.

I refer you Mr. Macle, to my column of Aug. 17. I wrote this particular column because I wanted to, and not because the Vernon Fish and Game Club asked me to. But, as an individual and using my own opinions, I am prepared to support any organization, provided I think their cause is right.

Now I refer you to your reply to my column in the Sept. 4 edition of the Daily Courier.

I suggest Mr. Macle that you wrote this letter of reply not because you felt you had sufficient cause as an individual, but because you felt you may be obligated to do so as president of your club.

I say this because throughout your letter your opinions seem to vary, agreeing in most parts with my own criticism and in others with possible previous opinions of some of your club members. You don't seem to be too definite as to just which side you should support. And I might add, you don't seem to think too much of our provincial fish and game management authorities, or has the club to be blamed for that?

In your letter you say, "The referring to myself, points out CORRECTLY that where the natural balance has been destroyed—such as by change of habitat or predator destruction—hunting becomes an important function in keeping a healthy balance."

Firstly, I'm glad that you agree there. Secondly, you go on to contradict this statement saying, "Presuming that such a means of balance is needed in any natural or provincial park we do not feel that sports hunting is the proper answer to this problem."

You go on to suggest that hired killers of game be used as presumably a safer and more disciplined way of maintaining wildlife balance.

But I am going to say this: Right now with the strict game regulations now existing, it would be extremely hard to legally prevent hunting as undisciplined. You just try to take a cow mouse out of season and see what happens—and this even in an area as remote as the Monashee.

Under the existing setup, limits can be changed yearly as the situation requires. If the game department feels a certain species is being over-hunted, then the hunting bag can be snapped shut. So to speak, we have no real control. And even if government hunters could control the hunting of wild game as you suggest, do you not think there would still be a problem of their kind?

You refer to an incident in 1961 in Grand Teton National Park.

This is hardly an answer to the question. I suggest your point could quite possibly be attributed to poor game management, and not to the hunting as you indicated.

Further, you say, of course, this is an extreme case and because of difficulty of access we do not suggest that such a situation is likely to arise in the near future in the Monashee.

Why bother to mention it if you feel it is an extreme case and you doubt it happening in the Monashee?

If you had a modicum of confidence in our provincial game management then I am sure you wouldn't have mentioned it. You continue by saying, "because of the increasing human population and hunting pressure, the day is not far distant when it will not be possible to shoot caribou in Monashee Park."

Again I refer you to our provincial game management. Do you really believe our game management would allow this to happen? This is not a knowledge away, happens to be one of the main reasons the government employs these men in this department. Do you not think the game management department would institute regulations to prevent the caribou from becoming extinct? I believe they would Mr. Macle. I suggest that if you don't believe in this particular management, then resign as president of the naturalists.

Getting back to the "difficulty of access" that you mention, I doubt very much if the government would agree so willingly to building proper access to this area just because the naturalist and the odd visitor would like to browse around and take photographs. On the other hand, problems of access does not prevent the hunter from entering the area. He is prepared to hike his way into the bush and search for his game, he doesn't expect to drive up beside it.

And just how often Mr. Macle, do you happen to visit this particular area in the winter time as a naturalist?

Furthermore, you mentioned that in 1960 in a certain area, you were able to spot between 20 and 30 goats, and only recently you were unable to spot any.

It would be my pleasure to personally introduce you to a resident of this area who only recently spotted some 40 goats where you maintain you saw none.

One point which should be remembered, but of course has no direct relationship to the subject of this column, is the fact that the British Columbia game management department is financed partly by hunters and fishermen. The department which, in my view, does such a tremendous job of keeping the best natural balance possible in this day and age, is not aided by the non-consumptive user. The naturalists and similar organizations, which contributing to knowledge and love of nature, don't put hand in pocket as a body to help our wild life experts.

I think all of us, whether naturalists, or just plain folk such as myself, should be grateful to the sporting organizations for the help they give to nature in B.C.

I would also say this: that despite their love of hunting, every member of a fish and game club in this province, would hang up his gun and fishing tackle forever, if he believed their continued use would bring extinction to our wild life.

Thank you Mr. Macle for your courtesy and thoughtful-provoking letter. I hope you find similar conditions in this column.

Driver Fined $200 And Costs On Impaired Driving Charge

VERNON (Staff)—Harold Arthur Buschen of South Burnaby, pleaded guilty in city court Friday to a charge of impaired driving and was fined $200 and costs or in default three months in prison. His driver's licence was also endorsed.

Magistrate Frank Smith asked the accused if he ever wanted to help curb motor vehicle accidents, many of them due to impaired driving. Buschen replied: "Yes, I have."

The magistrate then reprimanded him saying: "You read the papers, but it apparently doesn't stop you from trying one on and then trying to drive your car."

In passing sentence he told Buschen he was taking into consideration the fact he had no knowledge of any previous record of offences of this kind.

Mrs. Helen Topolinsky of Kelowna also appeared in magistrate's court Friday and pleaded guilty to being intoxicated in a public place. She was fined $25 and costs or in default one month in prison.

OKANAGAN VALLEY A GARDEN OF EDEN

In a recent letter to the editor, a Kelowna resident described the Okanagan Valley as a veritable Garden of Eden. We certainly have plenty of apples here for those who want to tempt people with and we have a scenic wonderland considerably many to be the most beautiful place on earth. So here is a view of the famous lake and the surrounding hills. Photo by B.C. government cameraman taken on the east side of the lake near Penticton.

Public Now More Aware "About Danger of Cancer"

By MABEL JOHNSON
Courier Correspondent

H. R. King of Vancouver, executive director, B.C. and Yukon Division Canadian Cancer Society, sees an increasing awareness in men and women regarding the potential dangers of cancer. On a visit to Vernon Mr. King said, "Any unusual sign of symptoms which persons notice for two or three weeks should be examined by the family doctor, who would advise the correct course to take from the doctor."

"Everyone is in possession of a two-pronged weapon to use in the fight against the disease. He or she can have regular checkups by their physician, and can help in whatever way they can, the cancer society branch in their own area," he said.

Mr. King is on a tour of B.C. and the Yukon; this week he is in the Okanagan. He has met the members of the Vernon Unit, Canadian Cancer Society at an informal meeting. Attending were representatives of the Order of the Eastern Star; Job's Daughters and their Guardians; and the Pythian Sisters. Of these fraternal and service groups, Mr. King had the highest praise.

He said in an interview that members of the OES provide cancer dressings free to those who require them. The organization buys the materials required, and makes them up in a meticulous way according to directions. A patient requiring these dressings may obtain them upon recommendation by their doctor, at the Centennial Health Unit.

Job's Daughters, an organization of teen-aged girls, makes it their business to help the cancer society in whatever way they can; and the Pythian Sisters serve tea and coffee to patients requiring clinical examinations, and help in many other ways, all of which was most encouraging to the cancer society.

Mr. King said the incidence of lung cancer in both men and women, is on the increase; and by the same token, other forms of cancer appear to be on the decrease.

Asked about the role of local cancer units, he explained that these groups of volunteer workers see that cancer victims receive the same treatment, if they cannot afford it, as those who can.

Yellowhead Highway First Before Howse Says Gaglardi

Highways Minister Gaglardi said Friday in Vernon he would finish the Yellowhead Pass Highway before giving consideration to the B.C. section of the proposed Howse Pass route linking the province with central Alberta.

Mr. Gaglardi said following additional traffic through the Howse Pass into the Rogers Pass would be but not its appeal as a tourist route. "Traffic on the Rogers Pass is reaching a point where tourists can't keep down and take advantage of the scenery," he said.

For this reason, completion of the Yellowhead Highway would give traffic from central Alberta an alternative route to the coast and take the strain off Rogers Pass.

He predicted the Yellowhead Highway would be finished in four years.

The minister said the Howse Pass would eventually come but he could not see B.C. assuming its part of the construction for at least five years.

That the David Thompson highway from Alberta would be finished and Alberta would "have a road to nowhere," Gaglardi said that "if the government was ever prepared to action it could complete the 30-mile B.C. section of the Howse Pass route in six months."

Jacob loved his son Joseph more than all the other sons, and gave him a special robe made of blue and white. When Joseph was 17, his brothers hated him because of the robe and because he told them what they were doing.

His brothers hated Joseph because of their father's preference for him. Joseph's robe was made of blue and white. He told his brothers what they were doing.

As they sat eating nearby, a caravan appeared on the road. Joseph's brothers decided to sell him to the caravan. They took him to the caravan and sold him for 20 shekels.

Then the brothers dipped Joseph's coat in goat's blood and returned to their father with it. Joseph's father saw the coat and was comforted.

Billy Graham Sees Hope For Racial Harmony

NEW YORK (AP)—The show graced church efforts in these group conflicts that Graham sees the fastest route for even racial harmony. U.S. 'Open Up Church' Group Trying To Assist In Canada

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—An American mission group is trying to help Canadian churches open up to all races. The group is called the American Mission for Opening Closed Churches.

The American mission for opening closed churches is trying to help Canadian churches open up to all races. The group is called the American Mission for Opening Closed Churches.

Since then, the mission has reopened churches in Wisconsin, Illinois, Connecticut, New Hampshire, Maine, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Maryland, as well as many in New York State.

When an interested group in a community asks the mission for assistance in reopening a church, the mission supplies a missionary - pastor. The missionary - pastor stays at the church until it is well established and self-supporting, then moves to another community.

School Bible Readings Go On

NEW YORK (AP)—Public school pupils in thousands of U.S. classrooms began the first days of school this year with Bible reading or a prayer, despite the U.S. Supreme Court ban against required religious devotions.

Open defiance was rare. But a spot-check across the country indicated that religious devotions have continued in many schools.

In many cases, school authorities left the decision to individual teachers, most of whom apparently continued their own or their school's practice, whether prayer, Bible-reading, silent meditation, inspirational reading or no devotions.

One case of open defiance was in Alabama, where Governor George C. Wallace has said: "We don't care what the Supreme Court says." Daily Bible readings, without comment, will continue as required by state law, Wallace said.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL - ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and read your Bible daily.

Bishop Who Never Wore Black Known To Airmen Across World

OTTAWA (CP)—It's not quite Roy of Quebec. The archbishop from Metz to Tokyo, is de-lighted at the inspired recognition of the rule of the village. Bishop of Metz, France, is a new one in effect. He will take over most of the duties of the vicar as principal channel of communication between the three armed services and the church organization.

Word of the appointment already has given a ready boost to the morale and self-esteem of armed forces clergy, he says. Men who served overseas with Father Gallagher remember him as a matchless storyteller, whether under the apple tree of Normandy or in the mess tents of the RCAF anywhere.

CFL Turns Back On Gerry James

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Canadian Football League has turned its back on Gerry James, but the one-time boy wonder says he may not be through yet.

"I can't reconcile that I'm through at 23," he said in an interview. "I could have a couple of more years left."

James, a 190-pound fullback, was cut from Winnipeg Blue Bombers a month ago after a decade of stardom with the Western Conference club.

Admitting he's a "little bitter," the Regina-born athlete added:

"Maybe I've been used as an example to players who want to get a little tough with the club."

The Bombers asked James to take a reported 30-per-cent pay cut this season and released him after he refused to buy it. DREW $13,000 SALARY

James was used mainly as a place-kicking specialist last season by the 1962 national champions. His top salary in his 10-year career was a reported $13,000.

James said a gimpy knee, from which he had a cartilage removed two years ago, "probably influenced the club's decision" to let him go.

After his release, James shopped around among other CFL clubs, got no takers and took a job as a hockey coach in Davos, Switzerland. He will leave Oct. 1.

A top performer in two sports, the five-foot-eleven athlete was a hard-rock winger in a five-year, up-and-down career with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League.

But his real fame came in football. The son of a former player, Eddie (Dynamite) James, Gerry was dubbed Kid Dynamite when he startled the sports world by cracking the Winnipeg lineup at 17.

TENNIS RACKET

By MARJ McFADDEN

The Okanagan Valley Tennis Championship has been a yearly event for almost 50 years (if interpreted correctly the date one of the older cups) and despite an occasional slight malaise, it is still the largest tennis tournament in the area.

The latest contest was held at the Kelowna Country Club and carried on through the Labor Day weekend. Competitors came from Revelstoke, Kamloops, Williams Lake, Abbotsford, Vancouver and Valley points with a total of 97 seniors and 12 junior entries vied for a place in the finals.

TO THE RELAXED SPECTATORS sitting in the shade, it must have seemed like hard labor day as the players raced around in the mid-day sun but the proximity of Lake Kalamalka kept temperatures below the boiling point.

Looking back on the tournament, the things that stand out are the generally high calibre of play shown by the men, the disappointingly small entry of only three junior girls and the conviction that more games must be played on the first day with everyone ready to begin at the stipulated time so that fewer games need be played on the Monday.

OUTSIDE THE REALM of tennis but also standouts were the extra special, deluxe hamburgers served up at the refreshment counter by hard working club member, Joy Wallace.

There were few upsets in the three days of play but as the finals drew near it became clear that the finish would be an untidy one. Only in the junior and women's games were the winners definitely decided.

Edmond Vlaszaty of Vancouver, winner of the singles cup in 1962 was the hard-luck player this year, leading in the finals by one set against Penticton's Bill Barlee, he left the court with the score tied at 3-3 evidently suffering from the effects of playing over 100 games that day.

BECAUSE DARKNESS was imminent, the mixed doubles match had to be postponed and was subsequently defaulted by Vlaszaty and partner Donna-Faye Haley in favor of finalists Joan Batterton and Bill Dalin of Kamloops.

Only the men's doubles will be played next week with Ron Corbett and Frank Knobel of Vernon meeting Roland Schwartz and Bill Barlee of Penticton.

In the women's singles, top seeded Joan Batterton with strong accurate drives and steady play, had little trouble retaining her cup and teamed with your correspondent (a good partner is a grr-rand thing) was victorious in the doubles.

EDMOND VLASZATY must have found the three days discouraging ones and it is to be hoped that the conditions causing the unfortunate situation will be remedied next year.

For most of us the weekend featured a main course of tennis of all varieties with a side serving of green lawns and water-for-swimming a very enjoyable change in the daily diet.

High Flying Cards Suffer Double Loss

St. Louis Cardinals, trying to nine games behind the five-hit overland league-leading Los Angeles Dodgers, with a late Bob Vesie skipped Cardinals in stretch bid, have lost the service of batting leader Dick Groat, their first ball game in nine days and an opportunity to gain ground in the National League pennant race.

Groat, the league's leading hitter with a .328 average and a top candidate for Most Valuable Player honors, was lost for several games when he was plunked in the chest by a Don Cardwell pitch in the first inning of the opener of a two-nighter against Pittsburgh Pirates.

Nevertheless, St. Louis went on to win the opener 5-1, extending their winning streak to a confusion of the lower chest with Cincinnati Reds' Frank Robinson may have been lost to Reds for the remainder of the season with a spike wound on the left arm.

Robinson's blow was pierced by the spike of New York second baseman Ron Hunt when Robinson slid into second in the sixth inning of Mets 3-4 decision.

In other games, Milwaukee Braves took over third place over Reds.

From San Francisco as Bob Shaw three - hit Philadelphia Phillies 5-0 and Chicago Cubs blanked Houston Colts 3-0 behind Glen Hobbie and Lindy McDaniel.

Blue Bombers Hand Argos 25-20 Defeat

TORONTO (CP)—This was to be the year Toronto Argonauts came out of the wilderness. And Jackie Parker was the Moose who was to lead them.

Things seemed to have worked in reverse—the Argos apparently have led Parker, the quarterback who for years dangled Edmonton Eskimos fans with his brilliant running, into the woods with them.

Friday night it was the same story as it has been for Toronto's last five games. They lost—25-20 to Winnipeg Blue Bombers—and remained in the Eastern Football Conference cellar with five defeats and one victory.

London Subway 100 Years Old
And Keeps Right On Growing

LONDON (AP)—The London could be compared to no other subway, first in the world, is in its 100th year of operation. And it is still growing.

A century ago, even before advent of the automobile, there were monumental traffic jams in London. Horse-drawn vehicles of all kinds jammed each other on the cobbled streets of crowded London.

The world's first subway has always been known as "The Underground."

But the construction was preceded by more than a decade of struggle to finance it. Money was hard to find, partly because of the Crimean War.

At last, in 1863, the line was ready and Londoners flocked to travel over the 3 1/2 miles from Bishop's Road, Paddington, in the western part of the city to Farringdon Street in the east-central section. The London Times then reported:

"Throughout the morning every station became crowded with anxious travelers who were admitted in sections. The approaches to the trains

The platform in general, the best great struggle was for a seat. Classifications were altogether ignored. The holder of a first-class ticket being compelled to go in number three or not at all, and vice versa."

There's only one class today and there are 244 miles of route carrying 675,000,000 passengers a year. The trains are electrically propelled. A hundred years ago they moved along under steam power. The first electric line came in 1890.

Now an additional line is being constructed. The new Victoria line is due for completion in 1968. It will run from Victoria Station to King's Cross Station and out to Walthamstow in northeast London, adding 10 1/2 miles to the present system.

Originally the subways were privately owned by railway companies.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

Do not expect much excitement or any spectacular change of environment or status on Sunday. Most persons will be in conservative mood and inclined to operate in a set pattern. Fine planetary influences, however, favor family and home interests, gatherings with close friends.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, the year ahead promises much in the way of achievement if you are patient and willing to adapt yourself to strict routine in business and financial affairs. You may have to try harder to cooperate with others if you would attain worthwhile goals. But you can accomplish a great deal in December, February, March and mid-1964. Start planning now, however. Rewards won't fall "out of the blue."

Personal affairs will be a little more exciting, with romance and social interests currently under good auspices; also in December, next May, June and July, travel where short trips are concerned—between now and the 15th of this month, in late December and/or early January, where long journeys are planned the period between late May and early September of next year will be good.

If you are careful not to start "rows" in family circles—often due to your tendency toward hypercriticism—you should find domestic concerns running along smoothly.

A child born on this day will be endowed with a sensitive nature but may try to hide it beneath a mantle of gruffness or haughtiness.

opening West can make

South wins the seven with the jack and plays the jack of diamonds, covered by the queen and king. He then leads a low club which East wins with the jack. East returns a spade.

South wins with the ace and plays another club, losing the king to the ace. East returns a heart. Declarer plays low, losing to the king and West returns the queen of spades.

East by now has a pretty good idea of how the cards are distributed at the table, so on the queen of spades he discards the queen of clubs.

He reasons that South cannot have the ten of clubs or he would not have played the club as he did. East therefore retains the queen to provide West with a club entry in case South is planning to establish dummy's last club as a trick.

This play sinks the contract. Declarer has only eight tricks and must go down regardless of what he does. He would have made the hand by leading a club if East had discarded the heart instead of the queen of clubs.

On a 32-card basis, with each player giving his all, South has no chance of making three no-trump. But in practice, one gets the favorable spade lead, he can make the hand by either refusing the heart finesse when it is offered or by not going up with the king of clubs.

THE DAY AFTER TOMORROW

Those engaged in artistic and intellectual pursuits will gain the most from Monday's planetary vibrations. However, these same persons, frequently temperamental, could prove extremely sensitive in dealings with others. Try to be understanding and tolerant and all should go well.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If Monday is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that, while your successes during the next 12 months may not be spectacular, they can be if you cooperate with planetary forces of the enduring type. Some fine stellar influences—notably in December, February, March and mid-1964—will govern business and monetary affairs but you, of course, will have to put forth your best efforts and use good judgment in order to benefit by them. Be conservative in the intervening months.

Personally relationships show promise of great happiness for most of the year ahead, with domestic affairs running smoothly, except for possible brief periods in mid-November and March; sentimental and social interests are under fine stimuli for the next week; also in December, and next May, June and July, and travel favored (short trips only) during the coming week, in late December and/or early January. A long journey taken between late May and early September of next year could prove exceptionally enjoyable.

A child born on this date will be endowed with a fine mind, lofty principles and marked inventive gifts.
